The actKM knowledge management forum is proud to announce that actKM 08 will be held on Tuesday 14th and Wednesday 15th of October 2008 at University House, Australian National University (ANU) Canberra, Australia.

Cost will be held at the very affordable price of $650 per person or $550 pp for a team of five, representing the best value for money KM conference available.

In 2007, actKM was recognised by Straits Knowledge as having run one of the best km conferences in the region. However, we cannot rest on our laurels and we believe that actKM 08 will be even more impressive.

actKM 08 is being designed to address the crucial issue of how we realise value from knowledge management activities. actKM 08 will again be highly participative and interactive with the introduction of the actKM collaborative cabaret using online collaboration using Web 2.0 tools to develop a highly interactive and entertaining event.

Keynote presenters

Following our success in 2007, actKM can announce that David Gurteen will be speaking on World 2.0 and facilitating a Reverse Brainstorming cafe. We will also be joined by the internationally renowned Dave Snowden from the UK.

Our other speakers include Australian KM leaders: Matt Moore, Graham Durant-Law, Laurie Lock lee, Jane Chrystal, Arthur Shelley, Serena Joyner, Matthew Hodgson and Stephen Collins, who describes his position as 'Chief Troublemaker'. We are incredibly fortunate to also have Andrew Campbell, who engineered the world-leading knowledge brokering work at Land & Water Australia.

actKM Knowledge Management Awards

In 2008, actKM will once again judge and award prizes to organisations or individuals that have made significant achievements in organisational capability, performance or sustainability through the application of knowledge-based projects or activities. Organisations or individuals who believe that they may have a potential for a submission, should register an expression of interest as early as possible.
